YEA PROTEIN · HOW TO RUN THE ADS

Budget rules & landing pages

How much to spend and when, which ads to run, where they lead.

1 Spend follows the season

1× = your normal week. Set it from what stock and margin allow, then multiply. In the first week of Lent orders were 3.5× the weeks before, and they fell ~60% the week after Easter, in both years.

2 Stock decides how far you go

Green: go to the season level
Chocolate and Vanilla Caramel each have 6+ weeks of stock
Run the full season level from rule 1.

Yellow: hold at 1×
2–6 weeks of stock, or one size missing
Push the flavors and Combos you have; order more now.

Red: retargeting only
Under 2 weeks, or a top flavor sold out
Pause ads for missing flavors. Restock before you spend.

Weeks of stock = units in stock ÷ units sold in a normal week. In a fast, stock runs out about twice as fast, so halve it.

3 Scale or cut every week, on real revenue

Under 2×	2–3×	3× or more
2 weeks in a row: cut 20%, check stock, offer and page	Hold the budget, swap in fresh ads	Add 20%, at most twice a week

× = shop revenue (WooCommerce) ÷ total ad spend, that week. 3× was the 2025 level; set your own line from margin. Don't use Meta's purchase count for this.

4 Split the money the same way, always

~80% new customers (one prospecting campaign) | ~20% retargeting

Retargeting covers cart, site visitors and refill (500g lasts ~2 weeks, 1kg ~4 weeks). It never stops, even in Red. Test new ads off-season; in peaks, run the winners.

Where ads should lead

Posni / season ads	/posni-protein (new landing page)
One-flavor ads	Product page with that flavor pre-selected
Combo / offer ads	2× Combo page (rebuild; old one is 404)
Retargeting	Cart · the product they viewed · refill

Never: homepage · 3× packs · sold-out flavors

~2× more per visit
2× Combo pages earn 94–114 RSD per Meta visit; the homepage earns 54.

- Same promise as the ad on the first screen
- Buy without scrolling on a phone
- Only in-stock flavors, price per kg
- Real reviews near the top
